

will be covered with an ugly skin - scientists keep this intact and you should try to. The best collection has two of each species - one with and one without the epidermis.

After your clean shells have dried (in sand, not sun), go over them with a rag dampened in light oil (Shell Household Lubricant). This insures preservation and restores their natural luster. Every three months or so, rub them with oil again - their most delicate colors will remain brilliant for years. Don't ever use shellac, lacquer varnish."

NOTICE: PASSENGER FERRY SERVICE TO CAPE LOOKOUT.

See loose enclosed notice in bulletin. The ferry will first start service sometime between Easter and May 15th, 1965 and then will run between April 1 and Dec. 1 except during rough weather. With it in operation, the opportunities by Shell Clubbers for collecting on one of North Carolina's finest beaches are greatly expanded.
